

GLOBAL APPRENTICESHIPS NETWORK

4 million vacancies remain unfilled in Europe

THE GLOBAL APPRENTICESHIPS NETWORK

*Skills for Business
Jobs for Youth*

The Global Apprenticeships Network (GAN) is a new coalition of companies

- Offering apprenticeships, learnerships and internships
- Sharing best practices with other companies, employers' federations and labour administrations
- Improving the status of apprenticeship programmes through advocacy campaigns and promoting work-based training
- Providing information and capacity building on setting up national and regional networks and annually informing on GAN's impact

73 MILLION YOUNG PEOPLE AROUND THE WORLD ARE UNEMPLOYED, YET BUSINESSES HAVE DIFFICULTY FINDING SKILLED WORKERS

Your hosts

The International Organisation of Employers (IOE), together with the Business and Industry Advisory Committee to the OECD BIAC, co-host the GAN, in collaboration and with the support of the International Labour Organization. Established in 1920, IOE is the most representative global voice of business with 150 member federations in 143 countries, making it the largest private sector network in the world. Since 1962, BIAC has been the representative voice of the OECD business community.

Benefits to joining the Network

- Exclusive access to industry intelligence on how to build apprenticeship and internship programmes, based on the best practices of the most successful businesses
- International recognition and visibility for your company's contribution to encouraging youth employment, a key priority on political agendas around the world
- Potential to build B2B partnerships across and within sectors, allowing for cross-pollination to stimulate innovation
- Facilitate links to talent and youth in emerging markets
- Cost-effective, one-stop package
