AIRNITE is an ECOLOGICAL, EFFECTIVE liquid biofertilizer. This is an option to recover and save the soil and our fields together with savings. All the production is ECOLOGICAL/ORGANIC and all fruits and vegetables are ready to consume. AIRNITE is absorbing atmospheric nitrogen from the air directly to the plant roots (Stevenson, 1982) and is based on natural effective microorganisms (EMO) Azotobacter, Cellulomonas and others. This is leading to the improved microbiological life of the soil (Pandey et al., 1999). Application is done simultaneously with the seeding with one drop of AIRNITE on the seed, 10 litres/hectar. By using AIRNITE we are ECONOMIC and we could save up to 70 percent of chemical nitrogen. This is an equivalent of 100 kg of urea and it means savings about 50 € /hectar including the cost for AIRNITE. AIRNITE is the product made by continued fermentation process on the machinery with patented process. Application is by tailor made applicators computer controled and adopted to the usual seeding machinery.
