Dr. Mehdi Safari
Iran's Deputy Foreign Minister
For Economic Diplomacy

In The Name of Allah

Iran has long occupied a pivotal position at the intersection of trade and cultural interchange between the Western world and the East, spanning millennia. As a crucial link in the ancient Silk Road, Persians have left an indelible mark that stretches from Africa to Western China. Consequently, the revival of this historic role stands as a paramount objective, and to that end, the Islamic Republic of Iran has undertaken numerous initiatives. These initiatives include the signing of the free trade agreement with the Eurasian Economic Union in 2022 and the enforcement of membership in the Shanghai Cooperation Organization on 3rd July 2023.

After enduring a protracted period of reliance on foreign entities, primarily due to the Islamic Revolution, Iran's oil sector has attained a state of self-sufficiency. Presently, it caters to the nation's domestic requirements while also exporting a plethora of associated services and technologies to numerous countries.

Not only confined to saffron and nuts, the agricultural and food industry represents yet another cornerstone of competence within the national economy. Iranian-manufactured processed food items and agricultural produce are readily observable on the shelves of markets in various countries.

Iranian building materials and civil and technical services have been exported to more than 35 countries in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Dams, roads, power plants, refineries, houses, and various other infrastructures crafted by Iranian companies have garnered immense admiration from numerous clients worldwide.

With the valued support of Ayatollah Seyyed Ali Khamenei, the Supreme Leader of the Islamic Revolution, profound advancements have been witnessed in knowledge-based industries over the past two decades. Industries such as nanotechnology, biotechnology, pharmaceuticals, and medical sectors have undergone remarkable development, leading to the exportation of these innovative products to various continents.

Between the Caspian sea in north and Persian gulf, Oman sea and Makran coast in south, given its unique geopolitical situation, outstanding tourism attractions, abundant natural resources, and a population exceeding 80 million, a significant portion of whom are youthful and well-educated, Iran undoubtedly possesses immense economic potential. Nevertheless, this potential remains untapped, leaving numerous unexcavated opportunities within the nation.

One of the necessities to realize these potentials, is gathering and representation of Iranian exporters and trade practitioners. Consequently, compilations of Iranian exporter listings could serve as suitable sources of reference for international partners.

Finally, I warmly encourage all interested global companies to consult the embassies of the Islamic Republic of Iran worldwide for further inquiries and to access associated consultancy services.

Mehdi Zeyghami
Acting Head of Iran's Trade Promotion
Organization (TPO)

In The Name of Allah

We are living in the information age. Then every business needs to be strengthened by using related information in a proper manner. The international trade is not an exception. Then it is vital to use different means to capture, process, transmit, and display data and information in the field of foreign trade. Helping our trade partners to reach out to the different companies in Iran is much needed. Although in recent years we were active in promoting trade by using different means, but still we can realize a gap in the field of preparing and disseminating information. In the framework of the promotion and development of trade between countries, governments have the duty to implement a set of support measures and policies to encourage and support small and medium-sized enterprises.

Activating and pursuing economic and commercial diplomacy, creating a suitable space and environment for business, providing commercial infrastructure, transportation, and banking relations, conducting trade negotiations between governments to facilitate commercial transactions, and concluding trade agreements, cannot be enough without providing the information and trying to connect traders to each other. These measures can be fruitful only when private sectors and companies have the opportunity to benefit from. Real trade will be achieved when the beneficiaries and private sectors can find suitable partners in their target markets and have the opportunity to introduce their capabilities in the international arena.

This reference book provides information on the capabilities of Iranian companies in specialized areas. Although that it is not enough, we can consider, that as a positive step forward. Updating the information and ranking of the enterprises would make this collection even more useful. I would like to appreciate the manager of Marja Institute for preparing this reference in the English language. But we need them to go further and make it more user-friendly by using information technology and making it compatible with different platforms. I hope this reference book can help our trade partners to reach out to producers and by that, it can boost our international trade.

Jafar Asen
CEO of Iran Reference Book

In The Name of Allah

This book is the result of our experience in the terms of collecting, processing and presenting classified information of active companies in Iran in more than a quarter of a century. Throughout this period, lots of database titles with a circulation of hundreds of thousands of copies were printed and published in Persian language and it has met the need of economic operators for the required information. Undoubtedly, due to the lack of databases, part of the commercial capacity and potential of the country has been stagnant.

Understanding this gap in the field of foreign trade by the Ketab-Marja information institute, more than a year was spent to collect, process, classify, verify and refine the information of the companies in order to create a comprehensive and reliable information bank, which is now available to you as a reference for Iran's commercial information. Inserting 8795 information records and their detailed classification in 472 specialized groups, complete verification and providing communication channels with active Iranian companies, have made it possible to use the most up-to-date information in books and the Internet, which undoubtedly can lead to the expansion of B2B communication between Iranian and foreign companies interested in doing business with Iran.

I find it necessary to thank "Trade Promotion Organization of Iran" and "Deputy of Economic Diplomacy of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs" owing to their support and guidance during the implementation of the project. According to the group's consultants, the first step of this project is firm and acceptable which can be a good start for a long and growth path. We hope to improve the quality and quantity of the project by regularly updating it in the upcoming years and addressing its shortcomings by consulting with experts. This is a team effort that work honestly and presents its efforts to you.
