Against the background of problems with access to fertilizers, a sharp rise in food and energy prices, the UN predicts a new catastrophic crisis. - How does business overcome sanctions and logistical barriers in search of new markets for products?
- What plans do governments have to curb food price inflation?
- Subsidies and cost recovery: what stimulates the development of agriculture?
- What can become an effective mechanism for the global food system against the background of the growth of the world's population?
